Dear friends in Christ,

“I’ll know it when I see it.” How many of us have uttered this phrase at one time or another, indicating that while we might not be able to describe something in precise terms at this very moment, we know that we’ll be able to recognize what we’re looking for as soon as we see it?

Sometimes what we consider to be an innate sense of what we’re looking for is evidence of the Holy Spirit’s work in us. In today’s Gospel, we see that God had been preparing John the Baptist to recognize the coming of Christ. John says twice in our Gospel today that I did not know him, and yet as soon as Jesus started coming toward him, he immediately said, Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sins of the world. John was able to recognize Jesus as the one sent by God because God had revealed to him that on whomever you see the Spirit come down and remain, he is the one. Having listened to the voice of God, John was able to recognize Jesus immediately as the one sent by God.

Like John, we have been given a supernatural ability to recognize the presence of God in our midst. In confirmation, we received the Holy Spirit’s gift of knowledge. This gift helps us to “know it when we see it” – to be able to recognize the presence and action of God in the midst of our daily lives.

The Gospels don’t tell us whether John was aware that his cousin Jesus would be the one for whom God was calling him to prepare the way. But they show clearly that God told him what to watch for. God sometimes gives us a sense, an inkling, or some insight that helps us to recognize his presence or his work in our lives, especially when it shows up in unexpected places.

As we come to the table of the Lord, may this Eucharist we share open our hearts to receive all the many ways that God makes himself known to us, so we can bear witness to him more effectively in our lives. Amen.
