

Dear Friends in Jesus Christ,

The opening verse of the Gospel; “The beginning of the Good News about Jesus Christ, the Son of God.” sets the theme for his Gospel. Unlike others Matthew and Luke, Mark does not begin his Gospel with the birth of Jesus, rather he reveals the identity of the man Jesus as ‘the Son of God’, which is ultimately pronounced by a pagan soldier at the foot of the cross saying, “He is truly the Son of God.” By revealing the identity of Jesus as the son of God, Mark wants all of us to understand that Jesus is part of God’s saving plan to be fulfilled from the very beginning of creation. This opening verse is also the profession of faith.

Now, the First Reading provides the background for the Gospel reading. John the Baptist emerges here as the immediate forerunner of Jesus. “Behold, I am sending my messenger ahead of you ....Prepare the way of the Lord, make straight his paths.” The prophetic cry made in the Old Testament is echoed in the New Testament through the Gospel of Mark, and St. John the Baptist responds to it by going around and proclaiming “a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins.” Today, the echo reflected in the New Testament should be heard in our hearts. But how many of us are able to hear the echo and act upon it? If we Christians are not ready to hear and respond to this echo, whom do you expect to respond? If we fail to respond to the cry of the prophet; “prepare the way of the Lord, and make straight his path,” absolutely we have no right to celebrate Christmas in our lives; however, if we try to celebrate it without spiritual preparation of repentance of forgiveness, be sure, it is only a show. Remember, Jesus is not concerned about the decorations you have at your home. He is not concerned about the costly gifts you share among your dear and near ones. He is not concerned about the delicious food you are planning to prepare for Christmas. He is concerned about how well we have prepared in our hearts to welcome Him in our hearts. If Jesus is not in our hearts during our Christmas celebration, our celebrations becomes only an art. The call of the Gospel today is to “Prepare the way of the Lord, make straight his paths.” John responds to the call by calling people to “a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins.” He calls for a spiritual preparation. A spiritual preparation is crucial and important for the coming of the Messiah. The response of the people to his call of conversion is noteworthy, that the people confessed their sins. Today, the question for us is-am I ready to straighten my path of life according to the will of God, for Jesus to come into my life?

Travelling in the United States by road every road and street have their own names, so that without much difficulty and confusion we might reach our destination. The same way, as Christians, we are on our final Journey to the Kingdom of God, but if we do not care about the road or street name called repentance, be sure we will miss our final destination. Does anyone follow the manual of a Toyota car, to function his or her Ford car? It is a common sense that we have to use the right manual. But when it comes to our own personal life, do we follow this simple common sense? Being created in the image and likeness of God, often we are tempted to use the manual of Satan and his foolish promptings and get into all kinds of troubles, rather than following the manual of God and promptings of the Holy Spirit to enjoy happiness. The result of this is lack of common sense we are experiencing in our daily lives. The season of Advent and St. John the Baptist in today’s Gospel are calling us to get back and use our common sense and follow the correct life manual of God for a healthy spiritual life or to say, live according to the will of God. Think about the story of the Prodigal Son, the Gospel says, “when he came to his senses...” he thought about his loving father and happy home and returns home. The same way, Repentance is a moment of regaining our lost senses, and going back to loving God and to His home. Let us ask the Eucharistic Lord to give us humility of heart to acknowledge our sins and there by acknowledge God and His will in our lives. May the Good Lord Bless you.
